Break

Design Ole Petter Wullum

Modular, moveable and reconfigurable like an subtly integrated architectural element.

The word break is both a verb and a noun that points to two fundamental aspects of the sofa series:

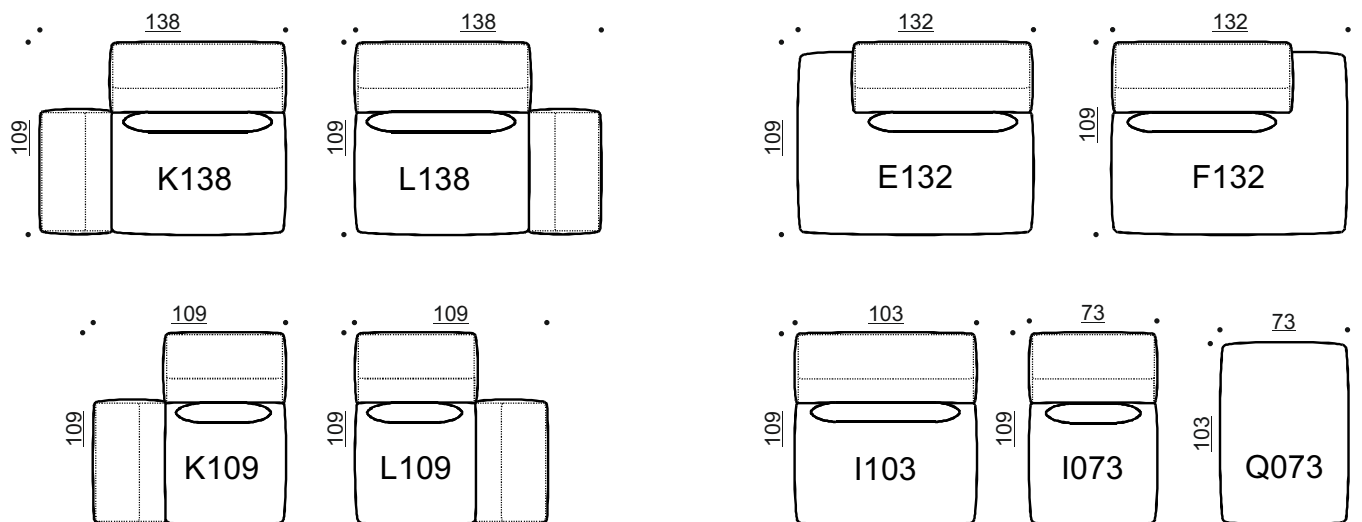

The characteristic and simple break detail on the armrest and the backrest which increases comfort significantly and break in the meaning of pause - a break from everything else.

Break gives new perspectives on the architectural lounge system by being a little wider, little lower and a little cooler than what exists - a little break from all the straight lines.

Break opens like a flower towards the user and appears both including and comfortable. The horizontal seam line that goes around the entire sofa emphasizes and enhances the horizontality and breaks in the shape - at the same time as it visually binds the parts together into a whole.

Break is a clean-cut architectural lounge system which speaks softly through softened geometry a contemporary modular series perfect for relaxed comfort adapted to freestanding, angled or linear compositions. Home-like informality coupled with precise form and expressive clarity.
